Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer moving image file promotes and supports the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes and is deemed objectionable.

The file depicts a sexual scene where a small-bodied, young-looking female participant plays the role of a girl in her mid-teens. Although she is supposedly sexually inexperienced, she is portrayed as willing to engage in sexual activity with adults, and is shown enjoying penetrative sex. The file lends support to the idea that very young women or girls are ready for adult forms of sexual activity. The material has the effect of encouraging and legitimating adult sexual interest in young persons and strengthening the idea that they are appropriate sexual partners for adults.

The classification of this publication interferes with the right to freedom of expression set out in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. However, this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention that publications that promote and support the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression that reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to protect its young and vulnerable members.
